

Campfire

It had been a long session of travelling, and the three of us were tired. It was just about to rain when we found a gazebo in a park off the road, so we ran for it.

I rolled out our sleeping mats and started a little fire. I looked for and didn't see anybody besides us, so I pulled out my nightclothes and started undressing.

Lizzy exclaimed, "What are you doing?"

I paused briefly and, continuing to undress, replied "Getting ready for bed."

"No, no, I get that, just... why are you undressing in front of us?"

Oak chimed in. "She always does this at home, and wherever we set up post."

"Just because she 'always does this' doesn't excuse the fact that she's..."

Lizzy's speech trailed off just as I took my top off. I must've caught her off-guard because her gaze became fixated on my chest. I don't have that big of a bust, but I'm certainly not flat, and the bra I was wearing must've been tempting to her.

I notice her quickly turn away, then slowly look back as I started taking off my pants. "It's okay to stare," I said calmly, "you don't have to feel ashamed about it."

That seemed to calm her nerves a ton. She took a deep breath and turned fully towards me, her face painted a deep pink. "I just... don't feel right with people seeing me barely dressed," she said nervously.

"If that's what you're worried about, I have a privacy screen you can use." I took out the collapsed screen and a set of nightclothes from my bag and handed them to her.

"Th-thank you," she blurted out, immediately opening the screen and obscuring herself.

Then, I said to her in a sultry voice in front of the screen, "Just so you know, I'm willing to show off my goods to you anytime you please~."

I heard her stop moving as she gasped slightly. Oak asked "Did you break her, Kellyn?"